What Readers Are Thinking

The Right to Work To the Editor of The Tribune. Sir: No man or class of men in this country has a right to say "Since I will not work, you shall not work."

The time has come when every American citizen who believes in law and order, and the vast majority do so believe, should speak out and let it be known in no uncertain terms that Maybe the British refusal to aid no class of men has a right to say that they shall dictate who shall work America in sweeping liquor smugglers and who shall not work.
